Problem solving & creativity

6 & 7 April 2019

Are you achieving your goals and feeling progressive? Is your horse enjoying your training sessions on the ground and in the saddle? Do you have questions about problems like: teaching your horse to stand still when you are getting in the saddle, loading your horse in the trailer, spooky corners in the arena or on the trail? This weekend is designed to give you all the answer to your training questions and give you a plan to achieve success at your level and beyond!

Online to freestyle riding

4 & 5 May 2019

How do we take horse psychology from the ground to the saddle? And how do we take harmony in the saddle to build communication on the ground? Being a good rider is about balance and posture in the saddle, but also about good leadership and communication. Can you refine your aids and have your horse understand your idea so clearly that you do not need a bridle?

Learn the art of Liberty

15 & 16 June 2019

Trust, bonding and play time! This course is all about having FUN- both for you and your horse. Learn how to start the basics and bring your liberty to the next level. When no halter or lead rope are left, you can test your relationship and communication!

Poles, cavalletti, jumps & obstacles

21 & 22 September 2019

How can you make training interesting and challenging mentally, emotionally and physically? Learn how to simulate real-life situations such as trailer loading, or water crossing by using obstacles to increase your horse's confidence. Learn to use consistency and variety to help your horse win the game and be successful in solving training puzzles that stimulate their mind and body!

Horsenality strategy

26 & 27 October 2019

Do you know your horse's character? Just like people have personalities, horses have horsenalties! But how can you change your training sessions once you know about this? Learn how to 'read your horse' and which strategies best fit YOUR horse. Understanding your horse will help you shape your training to achieve quicker success with a happy horse.

Mental, emotional and physical balance

9 & 10 November 2019

This course is focused on understanding the connection between a horse's mind and body, to achieve a harmonious partnership in the saddle and on the ground. Learn how ground work can compliment your horse's understanding of muscle-developing exercises in symmetry. Also learn how to use psychology in this type of training.
